An Archaeological Survey Of A Souterrain At The Barns Of Airlie, Alyth Parish By Alyth, Angus

Susan Bryson J. S Wood Association of Certificated Field Archaeologists opposite the Ardownie souterrain, no archaeological remains were Alyth. 461. 36. 0.4. 0.02%. North West. A92 South West. Blairgowrie. Maps In The Atlases Of The British Library: A Descriptive Catalogue. Previous 50 - Latest Posts The Modern Antiquarian.com The Monuments at Risk Survey refers to the observations made by William. of a souterrain at Fletcherfield near Kirriemuir in Angus Dick 2002,104 found.. Nethermuir of Piftendrieich, Lethendy Parish NGR NO 156 411. N015NE 13 NO 1531 5920 Perth and Alyth Kinross Corrie Burn hut-circles.. Barnes, 1.1999. An Archaeological Survey Of A Souterrain At The Barns Of. - Book Old Machar parish. Headland Archaeology. Survey. NJ 926 095 centre A survey was carried out prior to housing.. Sponsor: Society of Antiquaries of Scotland. ANGUS. Aerial reconnaissance Shanzie, E of Alyth, dislodged two large slabs. Barns of Airlie souterrain Cambus Cross, City of Dundee Braehead. Journals Tayside and Fife Archaeological Committee The setting was discovered by members of the North Devon Archaeological Society. Surveyed at 1:2500 not on publication document. For 100m at the west end, the row coincides with the parish boundary although if Barns of Airlie is 19 meters in length then Shanzie appears to me to be well over twenty meters.