The majority of important papers in "pure" organic chemistry as opposed to "applied" are published. However, if there were no indexes, abstracts, review articles, and other.. there is a cumulative subject and a cumulative formula index, which combine das.