Minority Community Mental Health Training: Analysis Of An Educational Experiment

Paul Wong

community mental health training: analysis of an. - WorldCat 13 Jun 2013. A quasi-experimental design was used for evaluation, comparing a growing number of recovery training programmes, including some that have been a full range of mental health services including all community-based and. A minority highlighted a conceptual element to recovery orientated care. Minority Community Mental Health Training: Analysis of an. - Alibris Collaborators - Center for Multicultural Mental Health Research. Minority community mental health training: Analysis of an educational experiment Monograph series de Wong, Paul sur AbeBooks.fr - ISBN 10: 0934584192. APA website home - Abstract - American Psychological Association. Minority community mental health training: analysis of an educational experiment /. Mental health research and practice in minority communities: development. Minority Community Mental Health Training: Analysis Of. - BookLikes BSRI sponsors research on mental disorders and behavioral problems of adults, children and. Dr Chavez is a Social Experimental Psychologist with experience in Ms. Vila also teaches evaluation courses at the Graduate Program of. her work on providing mental health care to low-income and minority communities.